

CV prof. Andrea Martini

Born in Florence on May 05, 1954. DVM with honors (1978) and Specialized in 'Pet diseases' (1981) at the University of Pisa. Doctor Honoris Causa of the Bioterra University of Bucarest (RO), 2010.

Associate Professor of Animal Science since November 01, 1992.

Delegate of the Agriculture School for the Erasmus+ program.

Delegate of Dept. of Agriculture, Food and Environmental Science (DISPAA) for international Relationships.

Secretary of the CIRSeMAF "Inter Universities Research Centre on Game and Environmental Improvements for Fauna".

Veterinarian in charged by University of Florence of laboratory animal protection (DL 116/92), and member of the Committee on laboratory animal protection.

Local responsible of the UE Concerted Action UE QLRT-2001-02541 "Sustaining Animal Health and Food Safety in Organic Farming".

Member of the Tuscany Certification Committee of ICEA (Ethical and Environmental Certification Institute) on organic animal productions.

Collaborator of the most important organic organizations of central Italy (AIAB, AMAB, Union of organic producers of Tuscany).

His research activity, proven by over 300 scientific publications, has been directed towards various aspects of animal productions, in particular, recently towards biotechnologies, conservation of endangered breeds, organic animal productions, animal welfare, unconventional medicine, tropical animal production and beekeeping.

Languages known: English, French, Spanish, Portuguese.